FOUR HURT IN ACCIDENT

MACHINE DRIVEN BY MT. OLIVET MAN PLUNGES INTO FENCE WHEN HE LOSES CONTROL OF WHEEL.

AGED MAN SUFFERS A BROKEN COLLAR BONE.

INJURED MEN ARE BROUGHT TO PARIS AND ATTENDED—ONE IS IN HOSPITAL.

Four persons were injured, none of them fatally, in an automobile accident, which occurred about one mile from this city shortly after noon yesterday, and as a result Mr. S. T. Stewart, a prominent business man of Mt. Olivet, Ky., is at the Massie Hospital, suffering with a dislocated shoulder and a broken collar bone.

The entire party, composed of Messrs. Stewart, Samuel Throckmorton, R. D. Curtis and Walter Linville, was from Mt. Olivet and making the trip through to Lexington in the automobile of the latter, which is a Ford car.

They came to Paris yesterday morning, arriving here about twelve o'clock and taking dinner, proceeded on their trip to Lexington. At the Adair bridge over Houston creek, about one mile from the city limits, Linville, who was driving the car, attempted to fasten a curtain on the car as a protection against the threatening rain. He was running the car at a moderate rate of speed when suddenly he lost control of the machine, which plunged into the fence across the road.

The occupants were thrown out, but with not with great force. Mr. Stewart, who is about sixty-five years old, suffered the most severe injuries. His right shoulder was dislocated and the shoulder blade of the left was broken. Mr. Throckmorton, who is the county clerk of Robertson county, was cut and bruised in a number of places and the other members of the party suffered only slight bruises from the impact.

Physicians were summoned from this city, Drs. Kenney and Rankin responding to the call, and the injured men were brought to Paris. Mr. Stewart was taken to the Massie Hospital, where the nature of his injuries was determined, and he was given immediate attention. Last night he was reported to be doing as well as could be expected, although he was suffering considerably.

The other members of the party, who suffered comparatively slight injuries, were able to return home last night.

The automobile, which was the property of Mr. Linville, who is a son-in-law of Mr. Stewart, was badly damaged and was brought to the garage of the Craig-Davis Motor Co., yesterday afternoon for repairs.

All of the men figuring in the accident are prominent in Robertson county, Mr. Curtis being a representative of the American Tobacco Co. in Mt. Olivet, while Mr. Linville is engaged in business in that city.

—Mr. and Mrs. Amos Turney, Jr., returned last night after a two weeks' trip to New York and other Eastern points.

ACCEPTS POSITION WITH PARIS GAS COMPANY

Mr. J. H. Hughes, of Winchester, has accepted a position with the Paris Gas & Electric Co., and has assumed his new position. Mr. Hughes is an expert gas man and will have charge of the estimating department of the local company in the installation of natural gas.

BURGLARS ENTER HOME AND MAKE RICH HAUL

Burglars entered the residence of Mr. Richard Brown, on South Main street Friday night and secured $80 in cash. The intruder entered by way of an open door, and went to the bedside of Mr. Brown, located his trousers and abstracted $30. A closet was then ransacked, and $45 in cash placed there by Mrs. Brown was taken, and $5 in cash was also taken from a boarder. It seems from the quick methods that the culprit was evidently acquainted with the house and the hiding place of the money.

MR. PERCY REED MAKES A BIG HIT.

From the crowds that packed the Columbia Theatre yesterday afternoon and night to hear Mr. Reed sing, it is forgone conclusion that he is the idol of the theatre-goers of Paris, who love to hear a good singer. Mr. Reed has just returned from the South where he finished a twenty-two weeks' engagement at the Majestic Theatre in Memphis, Tenn., which is one of the largest and finest moving picture theatres in the South, having a seating capacity close to two thousand.

The Columbia Theatre, as well as the Paris people in general, are to be congratulated on having such a baritone singer again in their midst and many comments were heard yesterday on his singing and all have agreed that his voice is stronger and still has that melodious sweetness, the kind that no one but Mr. Reed can put into words. He will continue to sing at this popular theatre and it certainly is a treat to hear him again in Paris.

CALL OF OLD OCEAN

Ever Felt Since Pharaoh's Daughter's Famed Trip.

Romantic Events Have Occurred When Beauty Bathed as Everyone Does Now—Resume of Seashore Fun of Many Places.

New York.—It was some years ago that "Pharaoh's daughter went down to the water," or, to speak by The Book, "came down to wash herself at the river; and her maidens walked along by the river's side." It is also related that she found the infant, Moses. But that is another story. The fact that she went down to old Nile to bathe is what at this moment draws one to her, especially one who has traversed old Cairo, ferried over to the Island of Roda, walked through the quaint garden which belongs to the heirs of Hassan Pasha, and at length climbed down to the very place where this great princess found Israel's lawgiver-to-be in the marshes. As a matter of fact, many romantic things have occurred when beauty was bathing or preparing to bathe. Actaeon thus came upon Diana in the cave of her valley inclosed with cypresses and pines. Let us hope he strayed there by accident, lest the list of known Peeping Toms be longer than it is.

At any rate, we bathe.

Better yet, the surf grows more enjoyable every day till the end of summer. To be sure it is always wet and spacious, but it is not always warm. The later in the summer the warmer the water.

The fact that bathing is delightful is proven by the avidity with which both the well and the ailing take to the surf. Even in dainty economical Japan the people hie themselves to the numerous bathing places, the hot springs being especially in favor.

Australia is bathing mad. Children there learn to swim as surely as they learn to spell—if not surer. All down our Pacific coast bathing is one of the greatest delights. And all over Europe sea bathing is indulged in whenever possible. Along the Mediterranean winter and spring travelers are likely to go in, but, if Americans, they are disappointed, missing the great crowds and the beach idling of our great New Jersey resorts. At home publicity is the keynote of our surf bathing; at most foreign resorts it is quite the reverse.

Some of the gay French and Belgian resorts rather manage to combine the two sorts. They retain their bathing machines but a crowd lingers in close proximity, and bathers, upon emerging from their machines, are not averse to being accosted by friends in ordinary attire.

A bathing machine, as everybody knows, is a little bathhouse on wheels. A horse usually serves to pull it high and dry away from the waves when the bather has emerged from her dip and climbed the few steps up to the door.

The English shudder at the idea of our mixed bathing and surely we are privileged to smile at some of their customs. On a certain warm day in Brighton, not so many years ago, one saw just how this modesty worked out. The few who had taken machines were uninteresting, semi-invalid old ladies and children. Then along came a buxom creature who having arranged for a bath climbed aboard and was presently no doubt disrobing. Every Johnnie who had seen her enter lingered and yet others, scenting free entertainment, joined the waiting list. The machine was now down with the front wheels in the water and as it was about time for the "vision" to appear these lovers of beauty drew closer and closer, not a few perching on the wheels as if to get a better view.

The door opened.

The "vision" modestly held the front of her so-called bathing suit in her hand as she stepped gingerly down until she could grasp the rope, for the beach is so steep that a bather is in up to the waist a few feet from the sand. Then the suit had it all its own way, and it ballooned and careened to the limit and then some. It was of a nice, warm red and cut like a very broad-necked old-fashioned chemise, with the lower part caught together for a few inches. This was a great advantage, as otherwise it might simply have blown over the bather's head and far away, giving some poor shark a terrible colic.

LIVE STOCK

QUALITIES OF THE KARAKUL

Belongs to Long-Wool Family From Which All Broadtail Varieties Descend—Is Hardy.

(By C. C. YOUNG.)

The Arabi or Karakul sheep has its origin in the Khanate of Bokhara, central Asia, and belongs to the long-wool family from which all broadtail varieties descend. For centuries Arabi bucks have been smuggled into Afghanistan, Persia, Turkestan, China, Palestine, Syria, Asia Minor and Egypt and because of the ignorance of the native who seem to have no conception of proper breeding have been crossed with native sheep of the long-wool, short-wool and hairy classes, which in all of those countries belong to the most inferior type of domestic sheep imaginable. Were it not for the fact that the Arabi strain was from time to time injected into the native sheep of the above-named countries, their sheep industry today would amount to absolutely nothing. As the Arabi is essentially a desert animal, and able to withstand any amount of hardship, evidently not minding the intense heat in the summer nor the severe cold in the winter, often going days without food and water, it can readily be seen why the people living in the arid countries of central Asia found it advantageous to cross their native sheep with the Arabi, which is the heaviest sheep known. The barren, semi-mountainous country of Bokhara in which the Arabi thrives certainly does not show much evidence of grass, except here and there in the small valleys, and nature has made it possible for this animal to store in a short time large quantities of fat in its immense tail, weighing from 25 to 50 pounds, upon which it draws for sustenance when necessity demands it, and these properties are in a large measure transmitted to the offspring resulting from crossing the Arabi with the native sheep. One has to eat the mutton of the Arabi but once to realize that it has absolutely no "sheep" taste, but possesses a delicious and very appetizing flavor.

Yearling Full-Blood Karakul Ewe.

DANGEROUS FEED FOR SWINE

Whenever Man Begins to Give Hogs Garbage From Hotels He Must Expect Cholera Outbreak.

I know of one case where a man who had been feeding hotel refuse held a public sale and disposed of a number of hogs, says a writer in the Swine Herd. Soon after that I was asked to determine the cause of death in three different hog lots on as many widely separated farms. In each case there was no history of their having been fed on garbage, but each owner had purchased hogs at the above sale, which to me, was significant.

Just why hotel and restaurant refuse should contain the cholera germ I do not wish to risk a statement, although there are several apparently reasonable explanations, but this I do know, that practically all the hog cholera that has come under my observation is easily traceable to garbage feeding. In this respect, for the sake of fairness, let me say that the garbage-fed hogs near large cities usually do not spread the disease, since practically all of them go for immediate slaughter, but around the smaller towns these swill-fed hogs frequently serve as centers of infection for a considerable area.

In conclusion, then, whenever a man commences to feed garbage to hogs he must expect, sooner or later, to have an outbreak of cholera, and, secondly, he should never, under any circumstances, dispose of any hogs except for immediate slaughter.

Feed for Sow and Pigs.

A good feed for both sow and pigs is a mixture of corn, shorts, oil meal and tankage. Keep them on a good pasture of leguminous crop, such as alfalfa or clover. If the pasture is not available, alfalfa hay may be fed, for the hogs will relish it in summer as well as in winter.

Best Market for Corn.

High-priced corn adds considerably to the cost of pork; but at the prices that have been prevailing the hog pen is the best market there is for corn.

Persistent Nuisance.

The cow that is a persistent fence-breaker is a nuisance, and ought to be extraordinarily good to induce her owner to put up with her pranks.

The Cheerful Life

It is the right of everyone to live and enjoy the cheerful life. We owe it to ourselves and those who live with us to live the cheerful life. We cannot do so if ill health takes hold of us.

Business Men Deplore Suits.

At a meeting of the Lexington Commercial Club the following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, it has been brought to the attention of the Board of Directors of the Lexington Commercial Club, that the tobacco interests of this city and State are again jeopardized by further harassing and embarrassing litigation having been instituted by revenue agents against the Burley Tobacco Society, and

"Whereas, the tobacco interest of Lexington and the Burley tobacco district is one of the greatest of our industrial, commercial and financial assets, an interest and a business which directly affects 40,000 farmers who, with their families, number approximately 200,000 of our citizens, and,

"Whereas, one of the main wheels and factors in this great commercial, industrial and financial tobacco enterprise, has been and is now the organization known as the Burley Tobacco Society, whose efforts in behalf of the farmers should be appreciated by every business man, and the benefits resulting from those efforts cannot be disputed or denied, therefore, be it

Ask For Dismissal.

"Resolved, That we deplore the great handicap of unnecessary litigation that has for many months hindered and embarrassed the laudable efforts of the Burley Tobacco Society and especially do we regret the further annoyance and embarrassment of this company by the prosecution of numerous suits by the revenue agents, in this and other counties, and for the good of a vast number of farmers and other interests of the State we hope and trust that the State and county officials will see their way clear to dismiss these actions now pending and that they and others will hereafter refrain from a like class of prosecutions."

Tax System Blamed.

Discussing the tax system of Kentucky in relation to the litigation in point, Editor Desha Breckinridge, of the Lexington Herald, says:

"Among other innumerable faults of this system, there are none more glaring than the provisions for the appointment and authority given to revenue agents. It became a custom for some lawyers to make an arrangement with the revenue agents for a division of the fees allowed for the collection of back taxes, instituting suits in the name of the revenue agent, when in fact it was the lawyer who conceived and executed the purpose to bring the suit. So flagrant became the abuses because of the institution of drag-net suits, which were often compromised for amounts only part of which reached the State Treasury, that the last Legislature modified the law so as to prevent this abuse.

Huge Drag-Net Cast.

"But there are still glaring evils under the present system, some of which are revealed by the innumerable suits instituted by John Howard, of Middleboro, a revenue agent for the State-at-Large, against the Burley Tobacco Society. The aggregate amount of property, for taxes on which suits were brought, is some sixty millions of dollars, the taxes on which would be some six hundred thousand dollars, with a penalty, which would go to recompense the revenue agent and his attorneys. The amount sued for is, of course, made so large as to cover all possible contingencies like a drag-net with which the fisherman hopes to catch everything in the pond. It is most unfortunate for the Burley Tobacco Society, for the burley tobacco growers, for the State and for the City of Lexington, that these suits have been instituted in the way in which they have been; and most unfortunate that there is apparent ground for the charge that their purpose is not so much to collect the amount of taxes due, if any are due, as to hamper and harass the Burley Tobacco Society.

The Just And The Unjust.

"There are forty thousand members of the Burley Tobacco Society who pledged their crops of 1911. Many of them undoubtedly listed their tobacco for taxation, as they are required to do by law, it being the duty of the owner of tobacco to list it for taxation. The suits, if successful, would require the society to pay out of its general fund, taxes on all the tobacco in its possession on the day on which it was required to be listed, so that those who had listed their tobacco for taxation and paid the taxes would be mulcted, as would also those who had not listed their tobacco. There are members of the Society who live in Indiana and Ohio who will, if these suits are successful, be required to contribute to pay the taxes collected in the forty counties of Kentucky, and the penalty, which would go to the revenue agent and his attorneys.

"The Burley Tobacco Society has on hand ready for distribution some three hundred thousand dollars. It is, of course, impossible for it to distribute that amount as long as these suits are on the docket unsettled.

"It Seems Curious."

"It seems curious that these suits should have been instituted against the Burley Tobacco Society, an organization formed for the purpose of aiding the tobacco growers to secure a reasonable price for their product, instead of having the American Tobacco Company secure that product at its own price, when no similar suits had been previously brought against the warehouses of Louisville, in which for years there have been enormous amounts of tobacco stored, nor any similar suit brought against the Dark Tobacco Association, of Southwestern Kentucky, which was organized before the Burley Tobacco Society. It is further a matter of comment that Judge Lewis Apperson, of Mt. Sterling, the attorney for the revenue agent, Mr. Howard, who has instituted these suits, has always been a violent opponent of the Burley Tobacco Society. Judge Apperson grew a crop of tobacco, which was guarded at public expense, in the cut-out year, and because of the pool of 1906 and 1907, and the cut-out, which he vigorously opposed and bitterly denounced, sold his tobacco at a much higher price than he would have otherwise been able to obtain for it. He now appears as attorney of record for the State revenue agent who institutes suits, the effect, if not the purpose of which, is to harass and to hamper the Burley Tobacco Society.

FARM ANIMALS

FEED NEW CORN GRADUALLY

If Given In Moderation at the Start Hogs Will by Degrees Get Accustomed to It.

(By R. G. WEATHERSTONE.)

Danger lurks in feeding an abundance of new corn. Feeders should introduce new corn gradually by cutting it up and feeding it with other feeds and with the pasture crops.

If fed moderately at the start hogs will consume both ears and stalks and by degrees get accustomed to the new feed.

By the time the stalks are hardened they will be in condition to consume larger quantities of the grain with safety and profit. Unless hogs have plenty of grass and forage crops the change of feed must be gradual if they are to escape derangement of digestion and disordered stomachs.

It means a little more work to feed supplemental feeds and old corn with the new, but the advantages are so great that the careful and intelligent feeder will not neglect that which is safest and promises the best results. Hogs relish new corn and we are many times tempted to feed them too much at the start. At least one month's time should be taken to bring hogs from pasture to a full feed of new corn.

It requires more bushels of new corn to make the same gain that sound corn will produce, hence it is advantageous from both the standpoint of health and profit to feed some old corn while bringing the hogs to a full feed of the new corn. Some severe losses can be avoided by the exercise of care and judgment in feeding new corn to hogs.

COMPEL HORSE TO EAT SLOW

Feed Manger Arranged So That Animal Must Chew Its Food Properly—How It Is Made.

I have a horse which when fed in an open manger, eats his feed so rapidly that it is not properly chewed and therefore does him little good. The accompanying cut shows a device which I employ to make him eat slowly, writes Monroe Conklin, Jr., of Alleghany county, N. Y., in the Farm and Home. The box B is made of four boards 16 inches long and eight inches wide, nailed together so as to form a chute having no top or bottom. The chute is 16 inches high and 6x8 inches inside.

It is set upright in the corner of the manger farthest from the horse, and nailed securely in place after being lifted one to three inches from the bottom. The feed is poured into it and works down into the manger as the horse eats it away from below. What feed the horse cannot reach should be scraped out before the next feed is poured in, otherwise it would become sour and moldy.

RIDDING THE HOGS OF LICE

First Thing is to Disinfect Pens, Bedding and Wallow—Then Use Powdered Staphisagria.

(By E. T. BAKER, Veterinarian, Idaho Experiment Station.)

A pig weighing 150 pounds will have approximately 12 pints of blood, each pint containing 7,680 drops, or a little over 92,000 drops of blood. If a louse abstracts a drop a day, and the pig is boarding several thousand lice, it is easy to see where the profit goes when "hogs don't pay."

It is worse than useless to "dope" the pig with "lice killer" without disinfecting pens, bedding and, in the spring, the wallow.

First, burn all the loose, dry straw, clean out manure; spray the pen floors, walls, beams, troughs and every crevice with a ten per cent. solution of formalin or a half-gallon of formalin to five gallons of water. Creolin may be added to wallow in warm weather, say half a pint to a large wallow.

Then dust on each pig powdered staphisagria. This will cause the average louse to homestead elsewhere.

Feed Clean Grain.

Put the grain through the fanning mill before feeding it to the horses. It will not only mean a cleaner, healthier ration for the teams, but the grain that passes through them will not be full of noxious weed seeds to be carried to the field with the manure, where they propagate countless numbers of weed pests next season.

Warning the Calf.

If the calf comes on a cold day and you did not give the cow liberty to lick the baby, the calf may be chilled through. Get busy. Rub it dry with hay or cloths and blanket the little fellow until it quits shivering.

Reminders of the Long Past.

Two human skeletons in perfect condition were unearthed during road-widening operations near Abergele, North Wales, recently. They were buried in a trench with other remains. Near the spot are the sites of ancient British encampments, and many severe engagements between the English and the Welsh were fought hard by.

Deadly Insult.

It was an English ship with an English crew and an American passenger list. Two stewards were having a heated altercation and pouring forth anathemas upon each other's head, when as a crowning insult one said to the other, "Aw, you eats just like a passenger."—San Francisco Argonaut.

Making It Ample.

Joel Chandler Harris, the author of Uncle Remus, was at his desk one night when an old-time reporter looked over and said: "Joe, how do you spell 'graphic'? With one 'f' or two?" "Well," said the kindly Uncle Remus, who was too gentle to hurt even a common adjective, "if you are going to use any, Bill, I guess you might as well go the limit."

Birds Utilize Storms.

It had been suggested that birds habitually make use of storms in traveling from one part of their range to another. It is pointed out that if a bird cannot find shelter it must be more comfortable on the wing than on the ground during a storm, because in the fiercest gale it flies in a moving medium, like a swimmer in a strongly flowing river.—Harper's Weekly.

Mutual Profit.

SCOTT COUNTY "DRYS" WIN ELECTION SATURDAY

Georgetown went "dry" by a majority of 411 in the county unit election held Saturday in Scott county. This is a largely reduced majority over that of the last county unit election held on this question, when the "drys" carried the county by about 1,200 majority.

The election of a few years ago which made Georgetown "dry" was declared by the Court of Appeals to have been carried by the "drys" by a majority of 3 votes. Georgetown reversed itself at Saturday's election by giving a "wet" majority of 176, the vote standing 471 "wet" to 295 "dry."

DEATHS.

TARR.

—After an illness of five weeks with typhoid fever, Mr. Thompson Tarr, one of the best known and most highly esteemed business men of this city, died at his home, "Elm Spring Farm," on the Georgetown pike, Friday morning at 6 o'clock.

Five weeks ago Mr. Tarr, who has been in declining health for several months, was stricken with typhoid fever, and during his illness pneumonia developed. His condition for two weeks was regarded as critical, but his physicians thought that he had a chance to recover. In his weakened condition he was unable to overcome the attack and suffering a relapse grew steadily worse until he expired.

Mr. Tarr was the founder of the Bourbon Lumber Co., in Paris, which was owned jointly by Mr. Tarr and Mr. James Stivers. This company carries one of the largest stocks of rough and dressed lumber in Central Kentucky, and their business has grown to such proportions that they shipped lumber to the counties adjacent to Bourbon.

Mr. Tarr was a son of the late William and Finley Fisher Tarr. He was born at the old Tarr homestead on the Jackstown pike, on what was known as the old Dan Hibel place. He received his education at the Tarr school on the Maysville pike, and later attended school at Millersburg.

Subsequently he entered Central University at Richmond, where he graduated. After finishing college Mr. Tarr located at Lexington and entered the retail lumber business with the late Mr. Mills Dodge. Later the business was sold, and he returned to Paris, and engaged in the same business with his brother, Mr. Fisher Tarr, the firm being known as Tarr Bros. After a time he purchased his brother's interest in the firm and formed a partnership with Mr. T. T. Templin, who remained in the firm for several years.

Mr. Tarr then founded his present business, the Bourbon Lumber Co., which has been most successful. In 1890 Mr. Tarr was united in marriage to Miss Mary Kennedy, only daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kennedy, of near Paris. Of this union was born one child, a daughter, who died in infancy.

Mr. Tarr was member of the Christian church, having joined that denomination while attending college. He was also a member of the Paris lodge of Elks and was one of the most popular gentlemen in the county.

Besides his wife Mr. Tarr is survived by one brother, Mr. Fisher Tarr, of Cincinnati, who has been at his bedside throughout his late illness. Also, by two half-sisters, Mrs. Anna Garth Atkinson, of Montgomery county, and Mrs. Bessie Evans, of near North Middletown, and two half-brothers, Mr. Bennett Tarr, of Bourbon, and Mr. William Tarr, of Marshall, Texas.

The funeral services were held Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, at his late residence. The service was conducted by Rev. W. E. Ellis, who was assisted by Eld. J. T. Sharrard, and the remains were interred in the family lot in the Paris cemetery. The pallbearers were James R. Stivers, George Alexander, B. M. Renick, Frank M. Clay, Bruce Miller, Hugh Montgomery, J. L. Dodge, Dr. C. C. Daugherty.

FORD.

—Mrs. Ann Willoughby Ford, wife of Matt Ford, a farmer of the Aaron's Run neighborhood, died after a long illness of typhoid fever. Mrs. Ford was 47 years old and was the daughter of F. Marion Willoughby, of this city. She is survived by her father, husband, several children and three sisters, Mrs. Wallace Scott, of Indiana, Mrs. W. D. Henry, of this county, and Mrs. Cornell, of this city. In the death of Mrs. Ford, Montgomery county loses one of its noblest and best women. She was a woman whose Christianity taught her to do good, and her whole life was spent in that endeavor. It is said of Mrs. Ford that she visited more sick and distressed and helped more poor people than any woman in Montgomery county, leaving a memory and a record for good deeds worth more than the tallest monument of granite that could be erected. Only a few hours before Mrs. Ford died her sister, Mrs. Sarah Hedges, wife of Oscar Hedges, of Bourbon county, died as the result of an operation, in this city, Wednesday. The interment of both bodies took place on the North Middletown cemetery, Friday morning, with services at the church at that place, of which both had been members for several years.

Origin of "Whisky."

The word Usk is an Anglicized form of the Welsh word wyg, a Celtic word meaning water. It is connected with the Irish word uisike, from which the Saxon gets the word whisky.

Part of the late Mrs. Ford's remains were interred in the family lot in the Paris cemetery. The pallbearers were James R. Stivers, George Alexander, B. M. Renick, Frank M. Clay, Bruce Miller, Hugh Montgomery, J. L. Dodge, Dr. C. C. Daugherty.

MATRIMONIAL.

MYALL-WILCOX.

The Liberty, Mo., Advance, contains the following of the marriage of Miss Ruth Myall, of that city, who has frequently visited here, to Mr. Roger Tyrone Wilcox, well known in Paris, where he was located for several months.

The ceremony was witnessed by about one hundred invited guests. The home was beautifully decorated in the colors of the Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority, pink and red. The officiating minister Dr. Robert Graham Frank, of the Christian church, and the Episcopal ing service was used.

"The bride is one of the most popular young women of Liberty. She is a graduate of the Liberty Ladies' College, and an active member of the Beta Sigma Omicron Sorority, being an officer in the grand council of that organization. She is talented, cultured, and in every way qualified to preside over the new home thus established.

"She will be greatly missed from the social and church life of the community.

"The groom is the son of Mr. Wilcox, secretary of the American Tobacco Company, of New York, and he is also connected with that corporation. He is a splendid young man, a college graduate, and has a very bright business future.

"His gift to his bride was a diamond pendant set in platinum. The newly-wedded couple left for the East immediately after the ceremony. They will take a motor trip on the Eastern coast, and will be at home after November 15, at Chestnut Ridge Farm, Glen Gardner, N. J."

MAN FOUND UNCONSCIOUS DIES AT HOSPITAL

Without regaining consciousness and suffering from an illness, which baffled his attending physicians, Oliver P. Maize, of Huntington, W. Va., a journeyman brick mason, died at the Massie Memorial Hospital Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Maize was found last Wednesday morning in the yard of the Paris City School and was removed to the Paris jail by Patrolman Charles Thomas. A physician was summoned and it was found that his condition was such that the patient should be removed to the Massie Hospital for treatment. A slight bruise on the side of his face was the only mark about the body, and in his unconscious condition he was unable to give any account of himself.

The only means of identification was a card found in the pocket, which had been issued by the Bricklayers and Masons Union of Huntington, W. Va., and which bore his name, together with that of L. D. Saltee, Secretary of the union. This was turned over to Mr. W. O. Hinton, who at once communicated with the officers of the union at Huntington. The officers of the union applied to Mr. J. T. Hinton, Jr., a son of Mayor Hinton, who resides in Huntington, and he at once telephoned his father that the organization to which Maize was a member would assume the expense incurred in giving him the proper attention.

Upon his death a telegram was sent to his wife. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Mr. J. T. Hinton, where it was prepared for burial and Saturday morning a message was received by Mr. Hinton with the instructions to hold the body until further notice.

Mr. William Maize, a brother of the unfortunate man arrived in this city Sunday to take charge of the remains. It has developed since the man was found that he had applied to Mr. George Deiterman, for employment, and was assigned to a new contract. He did not report for work Wednesday but nothing was thought of this until Saturday night when the other men in the employ of Mr. Deiterman were being paid and Maize had not put in his appearance.

Maize was a native of Bath county and was born near Salt Lick. He was aged about forty-five years. His brother took charge of the body which was shipped to Salt Lick, Bath county, for burial.

ACCOMPLISHED MUSICIANS TO GIVE CONCERT THURSDAY.

The Young Ladies Mission Circle of the Christian church is arranging to give a concert at Elks' Hall on Thursday evening, September 11, by Miss Edith Rubel, of Lebanon, Ky., violinist, and Miss Olive Robertson, of Carlisle, pianist.

In addition to being an accomplished violin artist, Miss Rubel renders dialect songs in a charming manner, and the first part of the program will be an arrangement of Southern dialect songs in a charming manner, and piano selections.

These young ladies are personally very attractive, and have given recitals in New York before the artistic and literary set, before the National Democratic Club, at private dinners for prominent society people, as well as in many places in Kentucky.

A charming evening is in store for all who attend, and the members of the circle who will personally sell tickets for the recital at 50 cents each will no doubt be very successful.

DEMONSTRATION IN THE USE OF HOG CHOLERA SERUM

Arrangements have been made with the State Commissioner of Agriculture whereby the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station will give a practical demonstration in the method of administering hog cholera serum at the State Fair. This demonstration will be given on Thursday, September 18, at 10 a. m., on the State Fair grounds, and should prove of interest to all farmers and hog raisers in the State. In addition to the demonstration, practical talks will be given on hog cholera, its diagnosis and post mortem lesions, the care of the sick and well hogs, the work of the hog cholera serum laboratory and State and Federal laws governing the quarantine and control of hog cholera by Dr. Robert Graham, Dr. J. H. Kastle, Director of the Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Station, Commissioner John W. Newman, and others. Altogether this meeting promises to be one of great interest to all farmers and hog raisers, and should prove one of the most instructive and valuable features of the Fair.

HORSES COLLIDE AND ONE ANIMAL IS KILLED.

A horse driven by William Boaz was killed last night on South Main street, when an animal driven by a negro, whose name could not be ascertained, collided with him. A shaft of the buggy driven by the negro penetrated the side of Boaz's horse killing it almost instantly.

—Mrs. Henriette Berry, of Seattle, Washington, has arrived for a visit to her sister, Mrs. Henry Fuhrman, on East High street. Mrs. Berry will spend the month of September with Mrs. Fuhrman before returning home.

See our exhibit—ask for

10 days' trial

Here is a new price on a competent Adder. On a machine that is rapid, full size and infallible.

The very latest machine, built by men who know how, in one of the largest metal-working shops. It is an individual Adder, to be placed on one's desk, close to one's books and papers. To take the place of the central machine, requiring skilled operators.

The price is due to utter simplicity, and to our enormous output. Seven keys do all the work.

Each copied number is shown up for checking before the addition is made.

The machine will add, subtract and multiply. With very slight practice anyone can compute a hundred figures a minute. And the machine never makes mistakes.

Countless offices, large and small, are getting from these machines the highest class of service.

Now we make this offer so that offices everywhere may learn what this machine means to them.

10 Days' Test

We will gladly place in any office one American Adder for a ten-day test. There will be no obligation, and charges will be prepaid.

Compare it with any non-lister-even the costliest. Let anyone use it. See if any machine can serve better than this. Just send us this coupon and we'll send the machine.

Please send us an American Adding Machine for ten days' free trial.

RILEY FINED $100 FOR DRAWING PISTOL ON WOMAN.

Pomer Riley, colored, was tried by a jury before Squire L. J. Fretwell, in the county court Friday upon a charge of drawing a deadly weapon upon another. It is alleged the negro drew a revolver upon a colored woman, who had a warrant issued for his arrest. The case was called Friday morning and the jury failed to agree. A second jury in the afternoon returned a verdict imposing a fine of $100 and giving the accused fifty days in jail.

KENTUCKIANS MAKE GOOD IN OKLAHOMA.

A dispatch from Oklahoma City, Okla., says:

"No other State in the Union has given to Oklahoma as many men prominent in political affairs of the new State, as may be seen by a reference to the political roster. It is estimated, too, that the 'Blue Grass' State has given more than 49,000 of her sons and daughters to Oklahoma. 'Kentuckians have established names for themselves in the financial affairs of the State as well. C. F. Colcord, of Paris and Oklahoma City; Scott Thompson, of Lexington and Oklahoma City; H. S. Emerson, of Paris and Britton, are names well known in banking circles of the State. Colcord is the owner of the $350,000 thirteen-story skyscraper office building of Oklahoma City. Thompson is an owner also of considerable real estate, and of a large office building in Oklahoma City. Emerson is president of the Britton State Bank."

—Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander and Mr. Thomas Pritchard, of this city, were among those who entertained with dinner parties at the Country Club Saturday night.

—Mrs. Thomas Allen entertained Friday at auction bridge at her home on Duncan Avenue in honor of Mrs. Joshua Hutsell, of Winchester, the guest of Mrs. Frank P. Kiser.

—Mr. Reuben Hutchcraft, of this city, will entertain Wednesday at the Country Club in honor of Miss Margaret Van Meter, who will leave next week for Dana Hall to attend school.

—Miss Emma L. Bryan, of Bourbon, has gone to Fairmont, West Virginia, for a visit with Mrs. Frances Dent Gross. The ladies were classmates at the Detroit Conservatory of Music.

—Winchester News: "Mrs. E. S. Jouett and daughter, Miss Virginia Jouett, who has been quite ill for several days, returned to their home in Louisville Friday night. Miss Jouett is much improved in health."

—Mrs. Clarence Kenney will entertain this afternoon at her home in the country in honor of Mrs. Milton C. Browning, of Columbus, O., who is here on a visit to relatives, and Mrs. John Yerkes, who will leave soon for Atlanta, Ga., to reside.

—Mrs. J. F. Dutton was taken to the W. W. Massie Hospital Thursday where she underwent an operation. Her condition is critical. Mrs. Dutton is the wife of Mr. J. F. Dutton, Superintendent of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Webber and Misses Mayme and Bessie Holladay have returned from an automobile trip to Chicago and other points of interest. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Blakemore, who accompanied the party, remained in Chicago for a longer visit.

—The Ladies' Missionary and Aid Society of the Baptist church will meet this afternoon at 3 o'clock instead of four as previously announced, at the home of Mrs. A. P. Thompson, on Stoner avenue. All members of the society are urgently requested to be present.

—Miss Carolyn Berry has returned from abroad, and is with her sister, Mrs. F. P. Lowry, on Stoner avenue. Miss Annie Berry, who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Lowry, has returned to Nashville, Tenn., to resume her duties as teacher in one of the schools in that city.

—Mrs. E. B. January entertained the members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church at her home on Houston Avenue last Thursday afternoon. A number of interesting lectures were given by Mrs. Helen Forsyth and others. Delicious refreshments were served during the afternoon.

—A surprise party was given in honor of Miss Elizabeth Henry, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. D. S. Henry, Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock. About twenty-five little guests met at the residence of Dr. Henry, where the little girls served refreshments in honor of the eighth birthday of their friend. The residence was prettily decorated and a delightful time was enjoyed.

—Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrison Davis and daughter, Miss Gladys Davis, arrived in Paris Sunday night from Council Bluffs, Iowa, for a month's visit to friends and relatives in this section. Mr. Davis is formerly of this city, and about seven years ago moved West with his family. He is at present identified with the Henwin-Kel & Davis Motor Car Co., of Council Bluffs, and is doing an excellent business. The many friends of Mr. Davis are congratulating him upon his success in his new home.

—Prof. Hume Bedford, of Boston, Mass., is visiting his mother, Mrs. Maria Bedford.

—Miss Joe Davis, of Lexington, is the guest of her aunt, Miss Anna Mae Davis, in this city.

"The Divorce Question."

The National Play Co.'s presentation of Wm. Anthony McGuire's intensely interesting argument against divorce will be seen at the Paris Grand, Friday, Sept. 12. The play treats the question of divorce as an individual, social and ethical problem, portraying a strong, vital, true situation of life as a premise to an argument which clearly demonstrates the futility of divorce as a means to social progress, inasmuch as it leads to the disintegration of the family, upon which rests our entire social structure, deprives children of the right to their parents and tends to foster that undeniably immoral and hurtful institution—polygamy.

No play of recent years has received the unanimous stamp of approval alike from the press and public and the clergy have gallantly responded in this fight against the horrible social evil—divorce.

The phenomenal success of the play in all cities visited would indicate that reservations should be made immediately.

Lyman Howe.

Thrills, ahrobs, sensations, information, amusement, superb scenery, historic cities, stormy seas, daring exploits—all this, and more, may be confidently looked forward to at the Paris Grand on Sept. 16th, with the positive assurance that expectations will be surpassed, because the attraction is Lyman B. Howe's Travel Festival. For this is one of those exceptional attractions that, judging from its many engagements here, can always be depended upon to fulfill more than it promises. More real "human interest" and amusement is compressed in two hours "travel with Howe" than is usually derived from two months of actual travel.

In addition to scenes of surpassing beauty, the new program to be presented comprises scientific, comic, topical and thrilling spectacles that are unparalleled.

"Undeniably the finest exhibition of animated photography ever presented in this city" are the words in which the Dallas, Tex., News describes it.

IT WAS SO PUZZLING

By JOHN NEWTON.

Dobozy and Angyal were sitting on the divan in the smoking room talking of a fair-haired lady. The stillness of the night, the red light of the lamp on the armors, swords and shields on the wall, the strong Turkish tobacco wrapped everything in the room in a blue fog and led their imaginations into the empire of mystery. They talked of many things in the abstract, though the principal subject of their conversation was a golden-haired lady who was very real indeed.

"You know that I am madly in love with her," said Dobozy, the magnate. "When I see her I have to use all my self-control not to throw myself at her feet. But listen—last week we were on our way towards the Turkish ruin and it was getting dark as we returned. She and I had walked a little ahead of the others. We stopped on a bridge to wait for them. Below us the Danube was rushing and above our heads the moon was shining. Suddenly I felt her hand gripping my arm and she said: 'I can look into your very soul as if it were made from glass. I can read every word written there. Surely you can also read mine. No, please do not say anything—' Strange words, you must admit. I did not answer. The others caught up with us. She was unusually quiet all the rest of the evening. Occasionally she looked at me and smiled sadly.

"And what happened then?" asked Angyal, the poet, very much interested.

"We arranged a new excursion to Bookstal, and then we drove home. The next day we started out in six carriages. She sat opposite and until we reached Jause she was bubbling over with good humor. There some gypsies began singing their ugly melancholy songs. Her face had turned quite pale and she bit her lips nervously. At last I did not dare say anything more to her, for I felt her soul was filled with bitterness. Suddenly she arose and went away from the rest of us to sit down alone on a bench in the wood. I followed her and noticed that her eyes were full of tears and her face was convulsed with pain."

"Irma, do tell me what is the matter with you?" I asked.

"She stamped her foot angrily and said: 'Please leave me alone.' An hour later she drove home alone without saying goodbye to anybody. But now comes the strangest part of all. When we returned we passed her villa. She stood on the balcony with her sister waving her hand at us, and when my carriage passed she threw a red rose to me and cried 'Goodnight, Dobozy.' What do you think of this, my friend? How am I to explain the sudden change in her treatment of me? She must have a secret. But what can it be?"

"A very interesting woman," said Angyal. "It would be something to a poet to look into her soul. Perhaps he might be able to solve the riddle."

Now, here is the real explanation. On the day of the excursion to Rockstal Irma had just received a pair of new shoes, which, of course, she must put on right away. Until they reached Jause, as long as they were sitting in the carriage, everything was well, but when she put her foot on the ground she might have screamed with pain. She felt as if she were sitting on a crater of glowing lava bathing her feet in it. The others who noticed her distorted face began to question her and to put an end to this she walked to the bench in the wood and when Dobozy did not leave her alone even there she had an attack of nervous crying. At last the pain became so unendurable that she drove home. As soon as she got rid of the two instruments of torture she felt as happy as ever before and her happiness culminated when she saw Dobozy driving by and she threw him the rose.

The next day the golden-haired girl, beautiful and charming as ever, promenaded in the park.

In front of the bandstand she met Dobozy, who at first felt rather embarrassed, but Irma's bewitching smile soon gave him back his courage.

An hour later Dobozy called on his friend, the poet Angyal. In a button-hole was a rose Irma had worn in the morning. As soon as he saw Angyal he burst out:

"Congratulations me, old boy, Irma has promised to be my wife."

But neither of the two ever succeeded in solving the riddle of Mrs. Irma Dobozy's life.

Found Doctor Didn't Need Him.

Wedding cut ups in Clay Center have a new form of diversion. The Times tells about it: "Recently a Clay Center young man was going to be married. The day of the affair, in the morning a friend pretending to be Dr. Olsen, telephoned him, telling him that under the new law a man had to undergo a physical examination by the city health officer before he could get married. He took it all in, in solemn earnest, and went to Dr. Olsen's office for the examination, Olsen being city health officer. Reaching the office he told the doctor he was ready for the examination. 'What examination?' asked Olsen. 'The examination you told me I would have to undergo. I am the young man who is to be married.' 'Some one has been playing a joke on you, my friend,' was the doctor's answer and the young man has about come to that conclusion himself. Still he thinks he will get even some day."—Kansas City Star.

SHE WAS IN A HURRY

By ANNA LEVY.

"I'm in a big hurry today," declared the girl as she settled back in the dentist's chair. "It's now ten o'clock, and I simply must leave here by 11! You'll hurry, won't you?"

"All right," said the dentist. "We can get a lot done by 11. Let's see, it was this back tooth we were working on. Has it been bothering you this week?" He paused, the small mirror held near her mouth.

"Oh, just a minute!" The girl squirmed sideways and settled herself again. "Yes, it's been bothering me a lot. I've hardly been able to eat a thing. I can just feel that the sharp little wire thing you've got there is going right into the very nerve. Why don't you know just where the nerve is, and try to keep as far from it as possible?" She pressed her lips tight together and frowned at the offending instrument.

"We won't hurt it. It isn't the nerve—it's just sensitive dentine that bothers you. But we'll fix that up with a little of this stuff." He put down the instruments and reached for a bottle.

"Oh, it burns like everything!" The girl sat bolt upright, pushing his hand away, and reached for the water glass.

"Now, if you go and wash it all away I can't promise a sure cure, you know," remonstrated the dentist.

"Well, I don't know that being burned to death is preferable to sensitive dentine, anyway," replied the girl, calmly drinking the water before once more settling comfortably back in the chair. "Now, you'd better hurry, it's a quarter after already," she said, accusingly, glancing at the clock.

"Open your mouth wide." He reached for the probe again.

"Oh! Oh! I knew it—you always do it!" The girl sat up to brush away a tear with the corner of the towel and accidentally dropped the towel on the floor. "No, you can't touch it for a minute. Wait until it stops aching, can't you?" She clung frantically to the clean towel he handed her, and glared at him.

"Oh, why on earth do we have teeth, anyway? They're always full of holes, and it's a choice between toothache and a dentist's murdering hands—and I don't know which I prefer!"

"I'll tell you," said the dentist, banteringly. "I'll give you gas and we'll pull them all out in a jiffy, and then you can have nice white false ones—and never any more trouble!"

"Well, go on!" She sat back resignedly.

"I've simply got to keep that 11 o'clock engagement! Oh, for pity's sake, are you going to drill again? Why, you drilled my very head off last week, and you said you'd be able to fill the tooth this time! That isn't fair! Why can't you be honest? You know I hate that drill—it makes my blood run cold, and I dream of it every night, and you promised you'd do all you could by hand!"

"Why Do We Have Teeth?"

"Oh! Oh! You drilled into the very place you put that probe! Couldn't you see the hole and keep out of it? Oh, it aches so!" She sat up and held the towel to her cheek disconsolately.

"Do you know," she began again, "every dentist I've ever had I simply hate! I can't help it—they were all so brutal, so inhuman! They don't care at all what they do to one, just so they get through. You'd think they'd be gentle—they see so much suffering; but they just grow louder! How do dentists keep their own teeth all right? I'll bet there's something one can use to prevent decay, but dentists conceal it from the public."

"Come on, now," said the dentist. I won't hurt you. I'll be just as gentle as possible." He was waiting. His instruments poised.

"Oh, I wish you'd hurry and finish my whole mouth, so I'd be through. I hate the sight of this building—and the smell of disinfectants sends a cold chill over me!"

"All right. Open your mouth and I'll see how much I can finish." He began again to drill, carefully—slowly.

Suddenly she sat up, pushing away his hands. "Oh, there it's 11 o'clock! And nothing accomplished!" She scrambled out of the chair. "I told you I was in a hurry, and you haven't done one thing!" She glared at him as she pinned on her hat.—Chicago Daily News.

ANSWERING HIS LETTER

By ANNA PHILPOT.

"Well," indignantly exclaimed the girl to herself, after she had glanced at the date of the letter that the postman had just left. "Two weeks!" She flung her head high, and looked into the mirror to get the effect. "I'll show him that I can keep him waiting, too!"

She unfolded the letter and read it. Then she reread it. "Not an apology in it, either! I ought just to write and tell him a thing or two—but he'll wait at least three weeks before he gets a word from me! Let him see how he likes it!" She was extremely indignant.

Going to her desk, she flung the letter disdainfully upon it and closed the lid. Then she opened the desk again and took up the letter.

"I wonder," she pondered, "whether I ought to wait three weeks. I don't believe it would be well to wait more than just as long as he waited. That will be a broad hint to him. But I'm not going to be satisfied with hints! I'm going to tell him good and plain that if my letters aren't of sufficient interest to be worth an answer before I've forgotten everything I wrote to him I'll just direct them to people by whom they will be more appreciated."

"I'll write him this very minute and set forth matters clearly to that young man while everything's fresh in my mind. Then I can leave the letter undated and send it later, whenever I decide will be best."

Suited the action to the word, she proceeded hastily to scribble off a letter.

"I'd better not begin to scold him at first," she decided. "I'll just answer his letter. I'll write as though I had nothing to say especially, and when I get nearly to the end I'll tell him a few things that he ought to know!"

She wrote on, happily smiling to herself, through a number of pages.

"Goodness!" she reflected. "What's the use of stirring up trouble? I think I'd just better let it drop and act as though I hadn't noticed how long a time had elapsed since he got my letter. It's far better that way. Really, it is foolish for a girl to let a man think she's eagerly waiting and watching for his letters."

"Then, too, I suppose he's awfully busy. They say that successful young business men usually can't get on with girls at all, but their time is almost never their own. And then his poor arms must get so tired writing his memoranda and getting out his reports that he ought to be praised for writing at all. Poor boy! It's mean of me to be resentful. I suppose he does his best. And it must be fearfully lonely for him out there and I suppose he just waits and waits for my letters.

"Let's see. He did say that he walked to the postoffice every night for the mail. Think how disappointing it must be to find nothing from me, day after day. He might cease going for the mail altogether if he thought no one would write. Goodness! What if I waited three weeks and then he didn't think it worth while to go for his mail any more and he'd never get my letter? And I sit here thinking he just wouldn't answer. That's the way most trouble starts. I'm not going to let it start that way for us, if I can help it!"

"I've made this letter just as formal and unconcerned as I possibly could," she said. Then she glanced through her letter. "Oh, I think it sounds awfully cold, considering the fact that we're engaged! I'll just add a postscript and try to make him see how much I care for him."

She scribbled away until the postscript was five pages longer than the letter. Then she looked at her watch.

"Goodness! I suppose the poor boy is counting the hours to see when a letter can get back to him. And he's so busy that the days just fly. I'm sure he didn't mean to wait so long before writing."

"Oh, what's the use? I'll just put on my coat and run to the mail box to catch the next mail with this letter. Poor, lonesome boy!"—Chicago Daily News.

According to instructions.

Bobbie! I heard you got a letter from your brother?

Joey—Indeed, I did.

Bobbie—Was there anything important in the letter?

Joey—Well, I didn't open it, for on the outside of the envelope was printed: "Please return in five days," so I sent it back to him.

Truck Replaced Three Teams

In eleven months this three-ton KisselKar Truck covered in actual service 4,760 miles at a fuel cost of $1.08 per day. Manned by a driver and one helper, it replaced three teams of horses. The average daily burden was 37 17.20ths tons—carried an average load of four tons—one ton overload—but in the entire period named, was laid up only two and one-half hours for repairs.

"We can recommend the KisselKar Truck and assure that it lives up to its guarantee," writes Thomas E. Fleischer, manager of the Sheboygan Lime Works.

Two and one-half hours for repairs, carrying over 37 tons per day is a record worthy of notice. KisselKar Trucks cost little to maintain and are economical to operate because the problem is solved in KisselKar construction.

Note these striking KisselKar features—Simple engine—easy to operate—reserve power—excess capacity—differential lock preventing one drive wheel absorbing all the power on slippery places, and stalling the truck—four speed transmitters geared up—fourth speed permitting high speed when desired without racing engine; 15 to 20 per cent. lower fuel consumption than average trucks—light spring suspension for power plant, heavy spring suspension for load—gauge that weighs load—greatest accessibility—easy control—larger brake drums, and extra powerful brakes—special bodies designed to meet every need.

KisselKar Trucks

1500 lbs.-1-2-3-4 and 5 Tons

In the range of capacity, 1500 lbs. to 5 tons, you can find just the type that fills your requirements—and with the KisselKar Truck goes the KisselKar Service, which is the manufacturer's guarantee of satisfaction.

KisselKar Service means taking off your hands all of the mechanical details. A special service building is maintained in this city for the benefit of KisselKar owners. The KisselKar service is a broad and comprehensive arrangement between manufacturer and owners that cares for the car, maintains efficiency, retards depreciation and minimizes upkeep. This service is a valuable consideration in the purchase of a power wagon. Investigate it.

Ask us to analyze your present horse haulage as compared to motor haulage. The result will be interesting.

Mr. Kentucky Farmer

If we told you of a crop which brought a cash income the year around, made the soil richer every year and required no skilled labor to handle it,

Wouldn't That Be The Crop For You?

You have this opportunity. The Tri-State Butter Company, Cincinnati, Ohio, will buy your cream the year around, pay spot cash for every shipment and give you a market that is responsible, safe and permanent, and proven so to more than 5,000 shippers.

No skilled labor is required to ship cream. Separate the milk, you—twice a week in the summer season—and not quite so often in the winter time.

Every cow will pay cash for what she eats, yielding a revenue of from $50.00 to $90.00 per year, besides adding $25.00 worth of fertility to your soil.

Ship your cream to-day, or write for free trial cans.

GETTING THE MOST OUT OF THE FARM MANURE

Farmers should use the time in the fall after the busy cropping season is over to clean the manure and litter out of the horse and cow stalls, and the cattle, hog and sheep sheds, and to haul out the remnants of old straw stacks and tramped-down and rotting material surrounding them. All such material should be scattered on the land and now is the time to do it.

The winter feeding season will soon be here and this means the accumulation of a large amount of manure, which if correctly saved and applied is exceedingly valuable. Every hundred pounds of stable manure is worth 10 to 15 cents, every ton from $2.00 to $3.00. The liquid is more valuable than the solid and should therefore be saved by the use of ample bedding material.

Improper handling of manure results in great loss. Careful tests have shown that it loses half its value in six months if exposed to the weather in the ordinary manure pile. Care must be taken to prevent heating, leaching and waste of the urine. Most of this loss is prevented when stock, such as cattle and mules, are fed in sheds, the manure being tightly compacted by the tramping of the stock, which excludes the air and prevents heating, the urine being saved by abundant bedding, and the sheltered situation preventing leaching by rains.

On account of sanitary considerations manure can not be allowed thus to accumulate in the dairy barn, in which case it should be removed to a shed or covered pit to prevent loss. It pays to provide such protection for the cow manure, but if the dairymen does not have a shed or pit the manure should not be allowed to accumulate, but should be regularly hauled away and scattered.

One advantage of live stock farming is that it furnishes a supply of manure. The stock farmer keeps most of his farm in grass, hay, forage crops, and this means plenty food is kept in the soil and the land is prevented from washing. He carefully saves and applies the manure and his land grows more productive each year. Good crops can not be grown without manuring the land in some way—either by commercial fertilizers, green manure crops, stubble manure, and for Kentucky farms stable manure is by far the most profitable means of fertilizing.

The writer in his own farm practice has hauled and scattered many hundreds of loads of stable manure. Much of this was placed on washed, thin, gullied land, and on this land to-day are growing rank sods of grass. Kentucky farmers have in the past failed sadly in making the most of their stable manure. On thousands of farms there fields that have been cropped for generations without the application of a single forkful of manure. With proper attention given to fertilization, with stable litter supplemented by the rational use of ground limestone and ground phosphate rock and with good rotation systems the crop yield of the state could be doubled in the next generation.

Undoubtedly our farmers will find this work highly profitable. In a recent address in Kentucky, Dr. C. G. Hopkins, of Illinois, said, "There is no investment which an honest man can

PARIS DEFEATS CLINTONVILLE IN EXCITING 12 INNING GAME.

By far the prettiest game that had been played upon the local grounds this season was that Sunday afternoon, when the Paris and Clintonville clubs met. The game went for twelve innings, the Paris aggregation winning out by a score of 2 to 1.

Curtis was on the mound for Paris and during the twelve rounds only allowed the visiting club three hits, two of which came in the fifth inning, when their only run of the game was counted. Each player on the Paris team seemed to be on his mettle, as well as those of their opponents, and during the entire contest not an error was recorded.

A pass and stolen base in the eleventh inning was almost responsible for the game being brought to a close, had not Reeves pulled down what looked to be a clean safe drive back of first base, which retired the side. In the twelfth inning Wilkeson for Paris, singled and stole second and Reeves singling, drove in the winning run. As a special attraction at White Park Saturday afternoon, an Paris will meet the Chippewa Indians, an excellent organization that is touring the country and made up of some of the very best ball players. The Indians are carrying a headliner with them in the person of Pitcher Pennance, who is a big league star, two years ago being with the New York Americans. The score of Sunday's game follows:

Batteries—Paris, Curtis and Wallen; Clintonville, Beasley and Beasley.

Plays Favorites.

Opportunity knocks once at every man's door, and even follows some men out to the ball park.

OVER THIRTY BLOCKS IN HOT SPRINGS BURN

More than thirty blocks on the eastern edge of the business section of Hot Springs, Ark., had been swept clean Friday night by a fire which at 9 o'clock threatened to eat its way towards Central Avenue, the main business street. A high wind was blowing and the Hot Springs and the Little Rock fire departments had made but little headway in checking the flames.

make which will pay so high returns as time and money spent judiciously in land improvement," and it might be added that there is no method of soil improvement available to Kentucky farmers so sure as the hauling and scattering of stable manure, and now is the time to do it.

Fear Always a Handicap.
Fear never did any good to anybody. Even when cause for fear is real, a man must not give up to it. If you can just bolster yourself up to the point of nerve that will enable you to master your fears, you will add 50 per cent. to your results and a like percentage to the influence for good you can bring to your house.

Reason for It.

Grandma—"In my day girls were more modest and reserved than they are now." May—"That's because you were taught that modesty and reserve were more alluring to the men."—Judge.

Daily Reminder.

No matter how the other markets fluctuate, good, old, common, everyday politeness is still quoted at the same figures.

High Prices for Gruesome Relics.

Gruesome relics were sold in a Paris auction room the other day. One was that of the petrified body of a Patagonian slain in battle several thousand years ago. The price was $1,640. Head of Indian cut off in battle, $265; two books, one bound in the skin of a white woman, the other in the skin of a negress, $100.

Explanation of Potlatch.

The word potlatch is a corruption of an Indian word common among the Pacific coast tribes, meaning festival of gifts. At a potlatch (potlatch) celebration the more personal property an Indian gives away, blankets, ornaments, etc., the higher he stands in the estimation of his neighbors, and the more he expects to receive in return at the next potlatch. The festival is also accompanied by music, dancing and feasting.

Life's True Heroes.

Wordsworth characterizes the "little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love" as the "best portion of a good man's life." The real heroism of life is to do its little duties promptly and faithfully.

Dog Had Appetite for Chicken.

A chicken-stealing dog, in the Dumbarton (Scotland) district, recently occasioned some anxiety to a number of hen keepers. On a thorough search being made a number of fowls were recovered buried in a field. Some fowls were eaten, and those not required for immediate use were hidden. It was discovered that the cause of the trouble was a large black Labrador dog, which has been roaming the district at will for several weeks.

READ BELOW HOW AN OLD GENTLEMAN WHO HID HIS MONEY OVER THE CLOCK NEARLY LOST $2000

After an intelligent old gentleman at the age of 76 dropped dead in his home, his son found over TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS in PAPER MONEY over the old clock which stood on the wooden mantel, surrounding an open crackling fire. Not even HIS OWN WIFE knew that much money was there. The old gentleman was simply CARELESS. His son had married the town banker's daughter, and the bank was trusted. Both the old gentleman's MONEY and LIFE were in danger; for burglars have a way of LEARNING where money is hidden, and FIRE at any time might have burned the house.
